

THE JAPANESE GARDEN Intensive Seminar Plus in Kyoto

JULY 30– AUGUST 11, 2012

Announcing the Intensive Seminar Plus

The Research Center for Japanese Garden Art and Historical Heritage is pleased to announce the 15th annual English language intensive course in the history, design theory, landscape ecology, and practice of the Japanese Garden.

We have been running the Seminar successfully for 14 years, and have been joined by more than 350 participants from all over the world – from Singapore to Mexico, Germany to the US; their energetic participation and support have made the Seminar a full and rewarding event for everyone involved, including the staff of the Center. With these past experiences in mind, the program has been redesigned in the context of the Graduate School of the Kyoto University of Art and Design to which the Center belongs. The contents of the Intensive Seminar Plus leaves more room for an individual learning experience for each participant and is fully academic at the same time. If you have taken part in an Intensive Seminar with us previously, you are welcome to apply once more for the Intensive Seminar Plus.

About the Program

The two-week program offers serious students from abroad a number of unique opportunities to study the Japanese garden. Some days will be divided between site visits and lectures on campus, but there will be several all-day excursions as well. On-site lectures will be given in some gardens that are usually not open to the public. The seminar will also include on-site sessions with professional gardeners to experience, first hand, the techniques and processes of Japanese garden design and construction. An outstanding feature of the course is the International Symposium halfway through the course. Top researchers will give presentations, and there is a chance for you as a participant to tell us about your experiences. We will ask you to contact us beforehand if you feel you want to share your experiences with us for the symposium. A more informal colloquium is also part of the seminar. Ample documentation is provided by us for you to visit your choice from our list of recommended famous gardens and sites in and around Kyoto, for which some days are reserved. Graduate students from the University, though limited in number, will be available to guide you on these days. In order to provide maximum personal attention, we strive for a group limited to not more than 25 students.

The 15th seminar is now in the process of accepting applications for review and selection.

Anyone with a serious interest in Japanese gardens can join the two-week Intensive Seminar Plus at a cost of 420,000 Japanese yen (about $5,380 USD at ¥78/$1). Students under the age of 35 who are enrolled full time in a school or university can participate at a reduced fee of 350,000 Japanese yen, but have to submit proof of their age and full-time enrollment.

This seminar fee covers: all lectures, entrance fees and transportations to site visits, excursions, course materials exclusive for participants, and rooms with breakfast in a comfortable inn (13 nights at shared rooms) for the duration of the course.

ALL APPLICATIONS FOR THE YEAR 2012 PROGRAM MUST BE RECEIVED BY FEBRUARY 29, 2012.

We look forward to receiving your application.
Warmest regards,

石崎博正

Hiromasa Amasaki, Director
Research Center for Japanese Garden Art and Historical Heritage
